Additional Information

Ulysses S. Grant National Historic Site is located on Grant Road across from Grant's Farm in South St. Louis County. Parking is free.

Registration and refreshments will be from 8:30-9:00 a.m. at the Visitor Center.

A boxed lunch will be provided for $9.00, or you may bring a lunch to eat on the grounds.

The workshop will include some walking and climbing stairs. Please dress casually and wear comfortable shoes.

This workshop is supported in part by Jefferson National Parks Association. Jefferson National Expansion Memorial 11 North Fourth Street St. Louis, MO 63102 National Park Service U.S. Department of the Interior

Jefferson National Expansion Memorial & Ulysses S. Grant National Historic Site

Teacher Workshop

"No person shall keep or teach any school for the instruction of negroes or mulattoes, in reading or writing, in this State."

Missouri Law, 1847

Freedom & Slavery in Antebellum St. Louis

Wednesday, June 13, 2007 8:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Ulysses S. Grant National Historical Site

For reservations, call (314) 655-1637

efore the Civil War, slavery ignited heated debates in public and private places across the United States. The topic tore at the very fabric of the nation as states divided along lines of slave and free. The Dred Scott Decision added fuel to the fire. Family relationships, like those between Ulysses S. Grant and his father-in-law, Frederick Dent, grew strained with the exchange of opinions about union and secession. But nowhere did the topic of slavery play a larger role than in the lives of people held in bondage; African Americans, both free and enslaved.

Workshop participants will participate in five sessions introducing National Park resources about slavery and freedom in antebellum St. Louis.

Antebellum Life and Jobs

Slaves and free blacks in St. Louis lived a difficult life in the antebellum days. Many worked in households similar to the Dents, while others were hired out to other households or businesses. Participants will experience the challenges of life and work in an antebellum household.

"One section of our country believes slavery is a right, and ought to be extended, while the other believes it is wrong, and ought not to be extended." Abraham Lincoln, 1861 Inaugural Address

Critter Camp Observation

In partnership with Grants Farm, Ulysses S. Grant National Historic Site hosts part of the Farm's "Critter Camp" summer program. Activities include a taste of 19th century schooling, a look at farm tools and period games, a house tour and an introduction to the National Park Service.

Primary Source Activity

Using census records from the 1800s, participants will compare life of a rural household with that of an urban household.

Mapping a life

How can one place reflect a life? Participants Dred Scott and Grant Traveling Trunks will use landmarks on the grounds of Ulysses S. Grant National Historic Site and throughout the new museum to map life from the perspective of a slave, then challenge others to also preview a traveling trunk about U.S. Grant. interpret their perspective.

The new Dred Scott Traveling Trunk includes living history items, images, documents, books, audio and video resources. Participants will

"The letters from the statesmen of the day will show how much this controversy occupied their thoughts...and fears were entertained that it might dissolve the Confederation by which the States were then united.'

Chief Justice Roger Taney, 1856 Dred Scott Decision

Curriculum Objectives

Workshop sessions address some of the following tested objectives for the states of Missouri and Illinois, as well as National Standards for History and Social Studies:

> ILS: 14.F, 16.B-D MAP: SS 1, 2, 3, 6

NCSS: II.a, II.c, II.d, V.e, VI.f, VI.h

NSH: 4.2, 4.4, 5.1